COURSES OF STUDY.

The Academic Department is designed to fit students for the firstclass colleges and in connection with the Normal to furnish a good Seminary Course. Students will be allowed to choose between Greek, German and French.

The Normal Course proves to be well adapted to the wants of those preparing to teach in this and adjoining States. A good feature of these courses is believed to be the prominence given to reading, to which the last recitation period of each day is set apart, and from which no pupil is excused. In nearly every class Monday's reading lesson is a selection of Scripture.

Instruction is given to the ladies in needle-work, and to the entire school in vocal music.

THE BIBLICAL CLASS.

Is designed simply to give to young preachers and others some knowledge of the history and geography, and of the fundamental doctrines of the Scriptures, and such other training as they especially need. Representatives of four different sects have been found in this class at the same time.

ADMISSION, ETC.

Applicants for admission must be able to give satisfactory evidence of good moral character. It is a cardinal principle that students shall be received and enjoy all the advantages of the institution without distinction on account of race, color, sex, or religious preferences.

An especially hearty welcome is extended to those who hadn't an opportunity to get an education while they were young; but they are advised to carefully consider before they come, whether, after being for a long time subject to no control but their own, they can submit cheerfully to all the regulations that are needed, in so large a company of young people, to make good order and effective study possible.

Persons of any state of advancement are admitted on any day of the session, and placed in the classes for which they are found, by examination, to be fitted.

Students are promoted in any study whenever their proficiency merits it, without regard to their standing in other branches.

Any student may pursue studies in both courses at the same time, and will be entitled to a diploma from either Department when he has completed the studies of that course or their equivalent.

TEXT-BOOKS.

For text-books used in the Academic and Normal Departments, see courses of study. In the preparatory are used McGuffey's 1st, 2d, 3d and 4th Readers, with Swinton's Supplements, Hooker's Book of Nature, Harvey's Primary Speller, Mary L. Hall's First Lessons in Geography, and Thompson's Rudiments of Arithmetic. The Biblical Class uses with the Bible, Smith's Smaller Scripture History, Smith's Dictionary of the Bible, and Webster's Unabridged.

Every student is required to have a Bible.

EXAMINATIONS.

Every class is examined at the close of each term. The design is to conduct these examinations in such a manner as to stimulate teachers to require, and pupils to perform, the best work possible, with no encouragement to work especially for examination.

PUBLIC EXHIBITIONS.

The public exercises of the school at Anniversary (the last Thursday in May) are as follows: Recitations, Declamations, and original parts by members of the Academic Department, and graduating class of the Normal; Prize Declamations by second class; and an exhibition at night of dialogues, declamations, recitations and music, in which those not in the classes named above are allowed to participate, if they have made sufficient advancement in elocution. Exercises of this kind are held also at Christmas, performed by those who have given the best satisfaction in the rhetorical exercises of the term.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

There are three services on the Sabbath in the chapel, two of which (including Sunday-school), or their equivalent at some other place, every pupil is required to attend.

Prayer-meeting Wednesday evening. Devotional exercises at 9 A. M., in the chapel, at which every pupil is required to be present.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two—the Lincoln Debating Association and Ladies' Literary Society, both in a flourishing condition.

LECTURES.

In addition to occasional lectures before the Literary Societies, a period of fifteen minutes, at the close of each day's recitations, is usually occupied by a lecture from the principal, or some other person, at which the entire school is required to be present. These lectures embrace a great variety of subjects pertaining to School Discipline, Political Economy, Morals, Physiology, History, events of the day, &c. This exercise is varied by minute speeches from students.

LIBRARY.

There are now about 3,200 volumes, most of which are good selections, but their is a great deficiency of works of History and Biography calculated to interest young people. We earnestly solicit from friends contributions of such.

READING ROOMS.

Instead of one for all in the Chapel Building, there will hereafter be one in Myrtle Hall for the young ladies and one in Lincoln Hall for the gentlemen. Contributions for these rooms are earnestly solicited.

MUSEUM.

A small collection of mineralogical and other specimens has been made, in the increase of which it is hoped all students and other friends will be interested.

PRINTING-PRESS.

By the generosity of friends in the North, and the efforts of pupils and teachers, a small printing-press has been secured, by means of which instruction in printing may be given to a limited number.

HISTORY.

Storer College was chartered by the Legislature of West Virginia, March 3, 1868. It received its name from the late John Storer, of Maine, who gave the first $10,000 towards its endowment, and also $1,000 towards founding the Library.

In accordance with the wishes of Mr. Storer, the Institution was chartered as a College, though with the purpose of conducting it as a Normal School and Seminary until its endowment will justify the establishment of a College Course. Seventy-two have finished the Normal Course. Counting those who have taught without completing the course, the number of teachers supplied from the school is more than two hundred and fifty. The patronage of the Academic Department increases from year to year. The first class graduated in 1880.

THE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Holds a convention yearly in the College Chapel, Christmas week. No pains will be spared to make the exercises interesting and profitable. The only necessary expense is $0.40 per day for board, and everybody is invited to attend. Through Rev. Dr. Pendleton, then State Supt. of Free Schools, a small appropriation from the Peabody fund was secured last winter to pay instructors.

NATURAL ADVANTAGES.

The Institution is located on Camp Hill, between the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers, and four hundred feet above them—a site unrivalled for healthfulness and beauty. Its isolation from the little town and all outside society renders it especially favorable to study.

BUILDINGS.

The young men's boarding hall accommodates a family and 60 students.

Myrtle Hall accommodates the preceptress, other teachers, the matron, a small family and sixty girls. It contains also a laundry and study-room for all the girls and a cook-room for those who board themselves. For the furnishing and current expenses of these rooms we are indebted to the F. B. Woman's Miss. So. Our gratitude is not measured by the material aid thus secured to the girls, which is not small; but by the help, which can not be estimated, in the promotion of regular habits, health and good order. Thanks are also due Miss Mary Toler, the matron, whose efficient management of this department (under the preceptress) has not only very much lightened the burdens of the teachers but greatly increased its advantage and benefit to the girls.

There are two other houses which accomodate a few boarders.

Our new chapel building, Anthony Memorial Hall, so much needed, is already begun. Only about one half the money necessary to complete it has been raised. Shall the Lord call in vain for the "five talents," the "two talents," the "one talent" and the smaller sums with whose care he has honored his servants? May the "Well done" be merited by such prompt and liberal giving that there will need be no interruption of this, the Lord's work.

Those who board themselves sometimes reduce their monthly expenses to $4.00 or even $3.00.

Tuition without room-rent, $1.00 per month. Extra charges for languages, instrumental music, and painting and drawing.

Each private room is furnished with a stove, double bedstead, table and chairs. Students provide themselves with bedding. Straw for filling an under bed can be procured for 20 cts.

Students are advised to bring such school-books as they have, but not to purchase others till they have been examined and had their studies assigned.

Hereafter students will be required at entrance to pay fifty cents, for which their copy-books and other writing and drawing materials used in the classes will be furnished.

CALENDAR.

The regular session begins the first Tuesday in October, and continues till the last Thursday in May, with a vacation of one week at Christmas, and of the first week in April.

The summer term for teachers, (tuition 50 cents, board $2.00 per week) begins the Monday after the Anniversary and continues eight weeks.
